Message from Margie

Vocabulary is the best predictor of reading and language comprehension by grade three or four.

The value of explicit vocabulary instruction cannot be overstated.  Hart and Risley demonstrated over a decade ago that, by age 3, a 30 million word gap exists between children in poverty and those in middle class families. Teachers in every grade, starting with pre-K, need to know how to facilitate word learning and oral language to back-fill this early language gap and, ultimately, to close the reading achievement gap.

According to Oxford Dictionaries, there are about a quarter of a million words in our English language. How do teachers build students' working lexicons from this vast word list? This month we share several evidence-based approaches for selecting and teaching vocabulary (additive, generative, word consciousness and academic language), tips for teachers and principals, links, resources and more for fostering a love and appreciation of our glorious English language.

Let's keep children at the heart of what we do,
